Fort Myers, FL 33908

Dear Dr. Rabano:

This letter is intended as both a thank you and a testimonial that you may show to your patients and/or other lawyers. I have been practicing law since 1997. Personal injury, workers compensation, and social security disability are primary focuses of my practice. As a result, I regularly interact with many chiropractors, orthopedists, neurologists, and other doctors. Since the first day that I met you (about 1 year ago), you have consistently distinguished yourself from other doctors. You are both literally and figureatively head and shoulders above them. In fact, I would say that you are the best doctor that I have ever worked with in many respects.

I have observed you demonstrating a level of personal care and concern for your patients that I thought disappeared when doctors stopped making house calls. Not only do I see you caring for your patients, but I also see the way they care for you and hug you back. You truly treat them like family.

Many doctors treat patients problems after they occur. I am impressed by the way you proactively educate and advocate to keep your clients healthy. When I am not working as an attorney, my passion is physical conditioning. This has led me to take many professional training seminars. In fact, I have even received a certification for elite fitness training from Crossfit "www.crossfit.com", the leader in elite physical training. I have observed how you educate people with regard to safe and functional exercise. I can state with confidence that your approach is excellent and a valuable service to your clients.

Most accident victims do not understand that you need more than a good doctor for a successful personal injury case. It is absolutely vital that your doctor understand how to connect the law and the medicine. For example, in New Jersey it is not enough to merely
